Returns and warranty

1. Returns eligibility

Nava is a fictional electronics retailer. These documents are demonstration fixtures, not the policy of a real business. Policy version 1.0 applies to the sample dataset in this repository.

Customers may request a return within 7 calendar days after delivery. A return request must include the order number, the reason for return and a photograph when damage is reported. The product must include its original accessories and packaging.

An opened in-ear headset cannot be returned for a change of mind for hygiene reasons. This exception does not remove the right to request inspection when the product is defective or the wrong item was delivered.

For a confirmed defect or a wrong item, Nava pays the return shipping cost. For an eligible change-of-mind return, the customer pays return shipping. A return is not approved automatically when a request is created.

Returns and warranty

2. Inspection, refunds and warranty

The support team inspects a returned product within 3 business days of receiving it. After approval, the refund is initiated to the original payment method within 5 business days. Bank settlement time is outside this internal service target.

The standard limited hardware warranty lasts 12 months from the invoice date. Manufacturing faults are covered after inspection. Accidental impact, liquid damage and unauthorized repairs are excluded.

A warranty claim and a change-of-mind return are different processes. The 7-day return window does not shorten the 12-month warranty. The support team must not promise a replacement before the inspection result.

This policy does not define international returns, a lifetime warranty or compensation for lost business. Questions on those subjects must be escalated rather than answered from assumptions.
