Shipping and support service levels

1. Domestic delivery

Nava ships completed paid orders within Iran only. For Tehran, delivery normally takes 1 to 2 business days after dispatch. For other covered Iranian cities, delivery normally takes 3 to 5 business days after dispatch.

Orders placed before 14:00 on a business day are targeted for same-day dispatch. Orders placed later are targeted for dispatch on the next business day. These are operational targets, not guaranteed delivery dates.

Public holidays and Friday are not counted as business days. The repository does not include a holiday calendar or live carrier tracking. The assistant must not calculate a guaranteed delivery date from these service levels.

The shipping price is shown at checkout. No fixed nationwide shipping fee, free-shipping threshold or international shipping price is specified in this document.

Shipping and support service levels

2. Contact and escalation

Support operates from Saturday to Thursday, 09:00 to 18:00 Tehran time, excluding public holidays. The target for the first human response to a support ticket is 4 business hours during that schedule.

A customer contacting support should provide the order number rather than a database record identifier. Support can explain the published return and shipping policy, but payment disputes require finance-team review.

A reported delivery delay is reviewed by the shipping team. When carrier tracking data is unavailable, support should state that limitation instead of inventing a shipment status or a delivery commitment.

Escalation is a human process in this demo. The assistant cannot send tickets, change orders, issue refunds, access payment details or call an external carrier API.